

A Rose Named Just For You? Christian Names ---Many hidden from view!

Many seek a rose to be named for a special person. To mark the death of a husband, wife, parent, child, or for a happier reason. Many search the web to find a firm to help them in this quest, and stumble across various websites offering a naming and registering service. The World Federation of Rose Societies was the body who oversees registration of names.

What is frequently seen is packaging that shows beautifully formed rose blooms. Please approach these offers with caution. I have heard and witnessed heart-breaking incidents where all the person receives is a packet of rose seeds a form of certificate (the promise to register the rose with a named organisation, but not The World Rose Federation) together with a picture of a beautiful Hybrid Tea rose. I have also seen this packaging in well-known and respected High Street stores. The seeds may produce little plants and may produce a flower but this will be a very simple small single petal flower nothing like a traditional rose. I have seen such plants tenderly cared for when the recipient seeks advice as to what they should do next.

These naming rose gifts are bought as well-intended gifts. Genuine new roses are produced by (Breeders) cross-pollination (I do not believe the seeds offered are a result of cross-pollination). The Breeder plants the seeds and if something shows any shape or promise the results are then taken further. Roses our industry sells are plants, which have been produce by budding; micro propagation and some produced on their own roots.

A genuine new rose takes years to produce. Breeders have to establish that they have something unique. They also seek to establish healthy roses, and it will take many years of trials, to make sure the rose will grow and perform well. It takes around 10 years to establish, trial and produce plants of a unique new rose. Many Breeders license such roses under British and/or Europe Plant Protection which is a very expensive process. To help cover such costs and to fund the continuation of their Breeding programmes offer Growers a production license. The Growers pay royalties to the Breeder to enable the plants they produce to be sold.

This said, there are genuine breeders/ growers offering to name a properly bred rose (probably not the very best), but do make sure you know exactly what you are paying for. Is it a brand-new variety? Will it be exclusively named for you? What will you receive from the provider? Will they market the rose universally or just provide it to you? Growers should answer all your questions and if you are happy with what you are offered and the price, then that is fine!

Any new rose variety will be supplied as a fully growing plant. The reason for this "Just For You" item (which always creates considerable interest), is to help find existing established roses which might already have a Christian name you seek or similar. Many Christian names are hidden. The more I research this item the more surprises I discover. There are so many Christian names I never knew existed. This list is aimed, as mentioned to help you find hidden names, but additionally those varieties, which can be found in alphabetic order, are shown in italic, and any "hidden" variations are given alongside. Once you have found the name you seek go back to the variety section of the site and find the grower(s). I hope you find the rose "Just For You".
